CNWL
Talking Therapies
Service (IAPT)

Wellbeing for life

About the service

We are part of the national NHS 'Improving Access to Psychological Therapy' service which provides a range of talking therapies. We offer a free and confidential talking therapies service for people registered with a GP in Brent, Harrow, Hillingdon, Kensington and Chelsea, or Westminster who need support with their mental health.

During the coronavirus outbreak we are here to provide support for those who are self-isolating or anxious about the impact of the virus on themselves and their families and loved ones. We will be providing brief, targeted interventions to help people manage during this difficult time.

This Covid-19 related support will be in addition to continuing to provide support for people with problems such as stress, anxiety, depression and insomnia, and we will continue to accept referrals and offer support. We are providing brief focused interventions to people by telephone or video call and the option of online treatments.

Our services can also provide links to resources in the community, online self-help resources, and other support where appropriate.

Helpful things to do

Make a schedule

Keeping a routine can be a really useful way to stay active, and have control over your day. Think about writing up a timetable to put on the wall, and write out what activities you will do throughout the day. It's important to include things that will be enjoyable, calming, as well as productive.

Keeping healthy

Take care of your basic needs; get rest and eat healthily. Remember, exercise is good for your physical health, and it can also boost your mood. You can still go outside for one form of exercise, just remember to practice social distancing and keep 2 metres apart.

Finding calm

It may be useful to write down all the questions you have, and look for the answers from reliable sources such as the NHS and Gov.uk. Finding things that are comforting to us can help with being calm and relaxed. You can find free phone apps and tools such as Calm which helps with relaxation, or Chill Panda relaxation for children, MeeTwo, a safe space for teenagers to share, and Every Mind Matters for adults.

A positive note

It's important to remember that there is hope and people are getting together at difficult times to support each other. End your day on a positive note, by spending a few minutes before bedtime to tell each other in person, by phone or even write in a journal something positive that happened in the day – or something positive you hope will happen in future.

We are here to help

If you are finding things are too much for you or a friend or family member, our Talking Therapies services are here to help. Please go to page 2 for contact details.
